

Helton Creek
November 3, 2018
by Dan Hebert

Helton Creek outing was a fairly decent fishing day! Browns and Rainbows and a few wild ones were caught on Eggs, BWO's, Green Mops and Chernobyls in size 18-20's. Day started cloudy and chilly in high 30's. Clear in the mid 40's in the afternoon once the sun broke out with a few BWO hatches. River was running fast from the rain the previous day and leaves were covering most runs. New members Steve Johnson, Bob Yon and Bill Dixon were indoctrinated to a North Carolina river and weather. Welcome guys, glad you are part of the club! Helton Creek Campground is a great facility for camping and fishing. Justin Kelley (purple jacket below) camp manager says "there's no better fishing on the river than right here and it's the most economical camp in all North Carolina." Thanks Justin, the heated bathrooms were awesome for warming your hands and derriere!!
See ya on the river.....
